WILLIMANTIC

Norwich Bulletin, Willimantic Office, 23 Church St. Telephone 105.

Traffic in this city Friday was practically at a standstill, no trolley cars and very few trains coming through during the day. People living in towns outside of Willimantic reported that traveling almost impossible, the drifts in some places from five to seven feet.

Trains coming into the city from New York and Boston continued to drag along five or six hours behind their schedules and there were no trains at all on the Central Vermont railroad bound south from early Thursday afternoon until three-thirty Friday afternoon, when a train was made up at this city and sent through to New London to carry the members of the Tumble In Co. to Norwich where they were to appear Friday evening.

Main street during the day was dotted with stalled automobiles, left there by their drivers half buried in the deep drifts. Travel became better during the afternoon, the light drizzle causing the snow on the streets to become packed down giving machines a better grip on the surface for a start. Mail service from the postoffice was kept up as usual, the men making the two trips during the day, but the rural carriers were in some cases unable to make their trips. During Friday but one mail carrier arrived in the city, this one coming from Hartford. The platform at the station was high with goods waiting to be shipped, as well as sacks of outgoing mail.

Superintendent Irving M. Ford made an endeavor to open up the streets during the day but the city men he had engaged for the purpose failed to get the snow off the streets. The train which was scheduled to arrive at the station at 11:45, this train was not scheduled to arrive at the station until 1:15 in the afternoon, after the special train had been sent out.

Conditions on the Shore Line Electric road were improved Friday and if the power plants receive a supply of coal, traffic will be sent through during today (Saturday).

Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the first in a series of afternoon gatherings was held at the Y. M. C. A. with a large attendance. The program was open only to members of the Junior Department of the Y. Two reels of educational pictures were shown and several addresses were given. The first meeting of those interested in becoming citizens of this country was held at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock. The speaker was Mr. J. D. Kimball, Americanization Agent of the town of Windham was in charge of the session and several prominent members of the city and county were present. The session was held in the evening and the speaker was Mr. J. D. Kimball, Americanization Agent of the town of Windham was in charge of the session and several prominent members of the city and county were present.

Eight marriages in the town of Windham during January were recorded as follows at the office of the town clerk:

1. Harry Joseph Page, 33 and Miss Mary Gauthier 30 by Rev. Harry S. McCready.	5. Joseph Lavore 25 and Eva Lambert 24 by Rev. L. Partridge.
6. Ward W. Mowry 21 and Miss Lois Vandenberg 21 by Rev. Harry S. McCready.	7. Joseph A. Jovino 25 and Miss Eva Antolak 18 by Rev. John E. Clark.
8. Leonard Blomdine 21 and Miss Mabel Alice Woodworth Jacobs 33 by Rev. Arthur D. Carpenter.	14. Howard W. Daniels 22 and Miss Elsie T. Johnson 19 by Rev. C. H. Smith.
15. Henry Safranek 23 and Barbara Pokornay 23 by Rev. J. R. Sullivan.	24. Dominik Salloska 29 and Miss Bertha Bala 24 by Rev. F. J. Kostick.

There were twenty deaths in the town during January. The list as recorded with town clerk Frank P. Clark:

1. Clarence W. Terry, age 5 years, 10 months, 8 days, scarlet fever.	7. William Chester Woodworth, 76 years, 11 months, 17 days, Arterio Sclerosis.
8. John Sweeney, 62 years, Bronchitis pneumonia.	9. Annie Plash, age 7 hours, premature birth.

Weather conditions do not favor a large attendance in the schools and there is much sickness.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The storm which blew in from the north during Friday, excepting a few trains, running on a demoralized schedule of operation, appeared here during the day.

The first of these, a southbound passenger train, reached here at 12:05 p. m. and a half hour later on its run from Worcester to New London. This train brought the first newspapers of the day and gave people a chance to get the news of what has happened to New England since the memorable storm started in last Wednesday evening. With an hour the first northbound passenger train made its way through to Danielson, bringing tidings of what happened to the south of here during the storm period.

As on Thursday there was no trolley service during Friday, and even the bus line, last, to succumb to the severity of the storm, was not furnishing service.

From the outlying districts and from the villages a few early passengers on the trains that were called for by the urgency of their calling or the spirit of adventure, forced their way through to Danielson. All of the roads were blocked with snow, badly drifted in places, than has been seen in a score of years.

At Danielson, the first train to arrive was the one from Worcester. It was the first train to arrive at Danielson since the storm started in last Wednesday evening.

PUTNAM

His relatives and friends here were shocked to learn of the death in Philadelphia of Charles Belair, a navigating quartermaster in the United States navy, who passed away Wednesday night after a brief illness with pneumonia.

Mr. Belair was very well known in this city. He was born in the neighboring town of Thompson and came here when he was seven years of age, remaining here until he enlisted in the navy ten years ago.

During his residence in this city he took part in many amateur theatrical productions and also became a motion picture machine operator.

Mr. Belair seemed to like life in the navy and he remained continuously in the service since he first entered it, rising steadily in his rank until he attained the rank of quartermaster. He returned from many months of service overseas with Uncle Sam's mine-sweeping force.

Mr. Belair married February 5, 1919, Blanche Boehm, of Philadelphia, who survives him. He also leaves a wife and mother, and two brothers and a sister. The body is to be brought to North Grovesend for burial.
